

NEW SYSTEM OF TEACHING SEEN IN TEXT BOOKS

Brother of Former University Head Displays Class Books at Notre Dame.

W. P. Burns, brother of Rev. James Burns, former president of Notre Dame, is introducing text books for Ginn & Co. to teachers in attendance at the university summer school. In the large room to the right of the registrar's office in the main building, Mr. Burns has on display a full line of Latin, French, Spanish and English texts for high school and university work together with a number of history and science books.

For the grade and grammar schools the exhibition includes texts in geography and grammar that are most recent innovations in teaching these subjects. Atwood's Regional Geography has numerous maps that are shaded according to the altitude and character of the land and in each district the prevailing product of the soil is named. This arrangement affords the child an excellent psychological comparison of countries and the effect that the condition of the land has on determining the activities of the people, according to Mr. Burns who showed how easy it was to see why Austria was starving due to a mountainous and unyielding soil.

Instead of the old dry method of teaching rules of grammar and expecting children to grasp them and govern their speech accordingly, the exhibition includes a number of pictures which are bound to excite the imagination of a child and with the resulting interest pupils will grasp for a more complete vocabulary in order to express their thoughts more fully.

"Motivation" is the name the company has given to this system of oral and written English. After the pupil has given his or her ideas on what the picture represents and means, the teacher corrects their choice of words and gradually introduces rules of grammar to them. The theory on which the system works is that by exciting the interest of the child, they will be more eager to be exact in expression than they would if merely forced to review a number of exercises.

Practically every teacher attending summer school at the university is examining the texts and expressing approval of the new systems for teaching preliminary geography and English work, according to Mr. Burns.

Snyder Addresses Kiwanis Club at Noonday Luncheon

Robert M. Snyder, assistant manager of the Chamber of Commerce, addressed the members of the Kiwanis club at their regular weekly luncheon Thursday noon at the Oliver hotel. His subject was "Making South Bend Safer." He gave a brief history of safety work since its beginning and of the development which it has undergone, telling of the organization of a South Bend Safety council which was organized under the direction of the Chamber of Commerce to oversee a year round program of safety first in this city.

A collection was taken to complete the fund which will be used in entertaining the children of the Orphans' home at the circus Friday, July 21. A baseball game between the club team and the Firemen was announced for Friday afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at Leeper park.

The oral boost for the day came from Walter Pasenich of the Indiana Lumber Co., a concern established in South Bend 46 years ago. Mr. Pasenich described various of the processes of manufacture connected with the business. The desert, at the luncheon came in the form of watermelons, the gift of Ernest Plowaty.

NEWBERRY FEARS EXIT AS SOLONS SEEK HIS 'SCALP'

Second Trial Appears Inevitable as Anti-Newberry Men Win in Primary.

WASHINGTON, July 13.—(By I. N. S.)—Sen. Truman H. Newberry, republican, Michigan, fears the inevitable necessity of standing trial again before the tribunal of his colleagues for possession of his seat in the senate, it was learned today.

A new anti-Newberry movement has been launched "under cover" following the defeat of two strong Newberry supporters in recent republican primaries.

Sponsors of the movement, it was learned, intend to force a second Newberry trial, similar to the second Lorimer trial, as soon as the new congress convenes next March. Newberry won his seat last January by a margin of five votes, the nomination of one more anti-Newberry republican for the senate, it was said, would place Newberry's seat in absolute jeopardy as it would give his margin and give his opponent a lead of one vote.

Indications today were that the Newberry case would be reopened by Sen. La Follette, republican, Wisconsin; Sen. Ladd, republican, North Dakota; or former Gov. Frazier of North Dakota, if the latter is elected to fill Sen. McCumber's seat. At the same time CW. Brookhart, of Iowa, was nominated in the republican primaries on the pledge he would move to reopen the Newberry case.

Sanitary Engineer Visits

City as Complaint Result

John C. Diggs, sanitary engineer of the Indiana Department of Conservation, was in the city Thursday, called here to investigate a complaint made against a local rendering plant, from which, it was stated, there existed a contaminating overflow into the St. Joseph river.

"These cases" said Diggs, "call for investigation and where found contaminating the water of rivers, we order proper treatment for such overflow."

Diggs stated that the department's principal aim was to keep the rivers as clear as possible and freed of all foreign matter that would, because of its nature, work against fish conservation.

One-piece Suit! A Raid—and Then a Ride!

Chicago bathing beauties rebel strenuously over the decree banning one-piece bathing suits from the public beaches. The combined efforts of the police department, park police and special bathing beach police were enlisted to enforce the ordinance. The picture above shows two of a number of beauties who insisted they were within their rights and were arrested in a beach raid. They resisted strenuously against being taken for a ride in "the wagon." But resistance to the burly police squad proved vain.

Distribution Service and Agriculture

OVER 10 great agricultural states of the Middle West, the far-flung distribution system of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is rendering an essential service to 30 million people.

The immense value of this service may be visualized when it is known that more than one-half of the farms in the states served are equipped with automobiles. The Census Bureau report on this point is as follows:

Indiana	46.4%
Illinois	53.0%
Michigan	40.2%
Wisconsin	49.6%
Minnesota	57.1%
Iowa	73.1%
Missouri	31.0%
North Dakota	56.7%
South Dakota	69.4%
Kansas	62.0%
Average	53.8%
Average for U. S.	30.7%

In other words, the need for gasoline and lubricants, in percentage per farm, in the states served by the Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is nearly twice that of the United States as a whole.

On the farm, petroleum products are an absolute necessity. The farmer is preoccupied with his task—the mighty task of raising food for the world. He must have petroleum products when and where he needs them.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is prepared to give a dependable, always-on-the-job service which the exigencies of farming demand. 6600 tank wagons are in operation this summer of 1922. These tank wagons make deliveries to the farmer's door. When necessary they serve him in the field—at his work. They reach him at dependable intervals and serve him with dependable products. Only a vast, centrally administered organization could render this effective type of service.
